AT ALPINE TAVERN THESE DAYS
And many people are requesting RUBIO CANYON, too. Of course you know the refreshing character of a day spent at LONG BEACH or HUNTINGTON BEACH, with all the charm of a surf bath. The delightful fishing at Huntington Beach, by the way, is something remarkable. THE PAILOR CAR "LOOPY" is a popular form of diversion, affording a whole day's outing for a dollar. We will be glad to have you inquire about any of these small cost outings made possible for you by

MILLIONS LIE BURIED THERE.

TREASURE OF PIRATES IN THE GALAPAGOS.

Another Expedition About to Undertake the Search for the Mysterious Store of Wealth—A Government Official Gives Information About Previous Attempts to Find It.

(Washington Dispatch to New York Post.) The following paragraph caught the eye of a State Department official not long ago:

VALPARAISO (Chili) Aug. 8.—The British yacht Cavalier, owned by Maj. Maude, a member of the Royal Army Reserve, has left Coquimbo for Galapagos Island, where a search will be made for the treasure which is said to have been hidden there a long time ago.

The Cavalier was very rough weather near Mocha Island, where the crew temporarily abandoned the vessel and suffered great hardships. The yacht carries two guns and one hundred rifles.

"Still after the Galapagos treasure," he remarked to your correspondent on reading this. "Well, I hope they get it this time. They are taking the two guns and 100 rifles along to kill the tortoises, I presume. You know the Galapagos Islands swarm with huge tortoises, some of them 600 pounds in weight. No doubt, too many of these monsters would hinder the work of treasure digging."

"But why make fun of those treasure hunters? They are on a quest that to my mind is the most fascinating in the world. What's more, I believe the treasure is there. I have kept track of it a little myself, and if I had a few thousand to spare and six months' leave of absence, might be there myself."

STORY OF THE TREASURE. "I'll tell you about this treasure, how it came there, and who buried it there, if you will guarantee not to go down and get it before I do. It was the rich spoils of years of piracy in the West Indies, and was taken around the Horn in 1820 and 1821, when the English war vessels stamped out piracy in the Spanish Main. The Galapagos group lies right out under the equator. The treasure was taken there, and buried on Commander Island, one of the group. The spot was well chosen, in a cañon which cleaves the hills running down the beach. The pirates who were pretty hotly chased, scattered as soon as they had disposed of their loot. Two of them, Englishmen of the names of Thompson and Chapel, landed at Valparaiso and worked their way back to England. They informed the British Admiralty of the treasure, and on promise of immunity from punishment they furnished maps and even accompanied a man-of-war that was sent out to recover the stuff and apprehend the pirates. The part of the treasure deposited in 1820 was dug up and taken back to England, and the expedition captured eighty of the pirates in small boats along the west coast, took them to Jamaica and hanged them."

MANY HAVE SEARCHED. "Thompson and Chapel were misled as to the location of the treasure hidden in 1821. This was the bigger lot, as it contained all the loot left in the West Indies. That is the treasure which still lies under the sands of Commander Island. A syndicate of Liverpool merchants sent out an expedition to get the treasure, but it was not found. Since that time many parties have searched for it. In 1846 a man named Keaton, who was said to be descended from one of the pirates, went to Galapagos and recovered $75,000 of the treasure. He was accompanied by a sailor named Bogue. They had two Chilians with them, who afterward disappeared. Keaton himself also disappeared, but Bogue turned up in St. Johns, New Brunswick, where he was charged with the murder of Keaton, and narrowly escaped the gallows. Several expeditions were fitted out after that, at San Francisco and Victoria, B. C., by persons who had been associated with Keaton. The brig Blakely was fitted out a couple of years ago, and she went down to look for the treasure, but she might as well have looked for pots of gold at the end of rainbows, for she went to Cocos Island, off Costa Rica, instead of going to Galapagos."

The latest expedition that went in search of the West Indian treasure was in charge of Capt. Brown of Boston, who took a party down from San Francisco in the schooner Herman. He had no definite knowledge of the treasure, but thought it was on Cocos Island. He became involved in a controversy with his crew, and the schooner put in at Honolulu. Later the crew dribbled back to San Francisco, disgusted with Brown and his buried treasure. They buried about $600 each of their treasure in the venture, I understand.

MANY, MANY MILLIONS. "The only reference I ever saw to the amount and character of the possessions was an interview with one of the Keaton parties in San Francisco paper. This said that the treasure was variously estimated at from $30,000,000 to $60,000,000 in money, bullion and utensils. In one excavation was buried 300,000 pounds of silver bullion and money, and in another hole 732 bars of gold, each four by three inches, as well as jeweled swords, precious stones, and several kettles full of molten gold.

"And now Capt. Maude of the Royal Army Reserve is after this treasure in the stout yacht Cavalier. Good luck to him! So long as I cannot afford to take a six months' leave of absence from the department, I am willing that Capt. Maude should have his trial. I hope he strikes that cañon and diverts without superhuman difficulty the little river that now flows over the spot where the treasure was buried. It is a good six months' task. It might pay—quite a bit. And think of the fun! Think of the international complications, to be avoided in smuggling this loot away from the jurisdiction of Ecuador!"

Pongee weaves, poplins, oxfords, etamines, and Panamas—all of them highly mercerized giving a silky finish which the materials will retain after laundering; some of them worth 35c, many of them worth 50c; also a goodly number of actual 75c values; today per yd. 25c.

An Encore Sale of Wash Goods. Sort of a Farewell Tour.

We told you last Sunday that we were going to close out our entire stock of wash goods and we practically did it; but this week we unearthed several cases of desirable wash dress goods in our basement. Several ladies have inquired when we would have another wash goods sale—so today we respond to the encore with the following most liberal offerings:

LINEN SUITINGS—both popular and desirable; pretty colors such as royal blue, reseda green, grey, oxblood, heliotrope, cream, also white; these have been exceptionally good sellers at 25c; today per yard. 12c
15c WASH GOODS—plain and fancy lawns, batistes, etamines, and other popular weaves; best of colors; pretty patterns; half price today per yard. 7c
WHITE DIMITY—fine quality, sheer, even weave; 1, 2, 3 and 4 cord effects; regular 15c value; today per yard. 9c

Plain Colored Organdy 2c yard

50 pieces of plain colored organdy in red, navy, royal, cerise, green and yellow; a sheer quality; some of the pieces are slightly damaged by being torn on the extreme edge, not enough however to interfere with the cutting of the garment; most of it is worth 10c a yard; today at the extreme rear of Aisle 5, per yard, 2c.

12c Zephyr-Gingham 7c

Fine zephyr gingham, pretty styles, neat stripes and checks; just the thing for girls' school dresses, regular price 12c. Today, per yd., 7c.

LOCAL POLITICS. OPENING GUN TOMORROW.

Republicans Prepare for a Great Meeting.

Secretary of Treasury Will Deliver Address.

Strong for Davenport in the Sixth Ward.

Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, is now on his way to Los Angeles to fire the local gun in the Republican national campaign. Wednesday night Secretary Shaw will address a mass meeting of Republicans at Hazard's Pavilion. Thursday morning, as a member of the President's official Cabinet, he will be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce at a non-partisan function.

Members of the Campaign Committee of the Republican Central Committee, working jointly with the Roosevelt Continuous Prosperity Club, have completed preparations to give the distinguished visitor a suitable reception.

A. P. Fleming has been appointed chairman of the Reception Committee, which consists of fifty-nine members. Congressman James McLaughlin will be chairman of the mass meeting at Hazard's Pavilion, Wednesday night. One hundred and fifty prominent Republicans of this city and other places in Southern California have been named as vice-presidents of the meeting, and to occupy seats on the rostrum.

Secretary Shaw will arrive in Los Angeles at a quarter of seven tomorrow morning. He will be met at the Arcade depot by the Reception Committee and driven to the Westminster Hotel. During the afternoon Secretary Shaw will be the guest of the Reception Committee on an automobile ride to Pasadena.

To the Columbia Marching Club of Santa Ana has been accorded the honor of acting as escort to Secretary Shaw. The members of the marching club will arrive from Santa Ana at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. At 7:30 o'clock they will march to Hotel Westminster and escort the city's guest to Hazard's Pavilion.

Secretary Shaw will be the only speaker of the evening. In his address delivered in northern cities Secretary Shaw has devoted most of his time to discussing subjects directly affecting the Pacific slope, and his address tomorrow evening promises to be unusually interesting. Thursday morning Secretary Shaw will be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce. In the evening he will leave for Denver.

WILL SUPPORT DAVENPORT.

SIXTH WARD BUSINESS MEN
WANT NO CHANGE.

Eminent Attorney Says a Vindication of Davenport Means a Vindication of the Recall, Otherwise Worthless—Fair Play Club Will Meet Tonight—Allen Caid Not Wanted.

Forgetting past differences and disregarding party lines, conservative business men and property holders of the Sixth Ward are banding together to resist the attack made by a few salaried men on the ward's representative in the City Council.

Men of affairs in the ward are outspoken in their disapproval of the unwholesome attack to which Councilman Davenport has been subjected. They say with one accord that on the 16th inst. they will give him a bustling vote of confidence. Headquarters of the Davenport Fair Play Club have been opened at No. 108 Central avenue and will be maintained until after the election. An invitation has been extended to all electors of the ward to attend the mass meeting, which will be held in the club rooms at the purpose of perfecting permanent organization and discussing the issues of the campaign. It is to be a mass meeting only; no men cards or malcontents from other wards will be imported for the purpose of working up sentiment. Members of the Davenport Fair Play Club are amply able to deliberate on the affairs of the ward without outside interference.

"RECALL" ON TRIAL.

Charles R. Williams, formerly a member of the Ohio State bar, now a property owner in the Sixth Ward and resident of East Washington street, as taken considerable interest in the attempt to invoke the recall to unseat Councilman Davenport. Mr. Williams attended every session of court during the hearing before Judge Oster. "It is the recall itself and not the 16th Ward Councilman that is now a trial," said Mr. Williams yesterday. "The recall is a two-edged sword. A usefulness hinges on the question whether the electors of a ward will permit their Councilman to be seated by it when he has been guilty either of neglect of duty or malfeasance in office. If it is to be used as a weapon of revenge by disgruntled men, then it is a piece of vicious legislation; but if the people of a ward will rise up and rebuke any attempt to use it, then it is the best bit of legislation the century has produced. From the earliest days to the present, Californians have had the reputation of being square and fair in their dealings, and as being notorious liars in fair play. Let them be the fairest and most generous men in the country. On the 16th inst. let them decide whether the 16th Ward is going to stand for its reputation and make it good, or let them allow themselves to be used as a public office, and who has exercised a judgment according to his understanding of his duties, is compelled to hear to put himself on a trial," said Mr. Williams yesterday. "Why? Because a losing bidder for public contract is disgraced, reprobated, and has not hesitated to use opportunities to strike without fear possibility for any fighting back. Let the Sixth Warders mean to be able to such a one-sided or manifestly unfair trial of a low-class who from the very nature of the circumstances stands with his hands tied?"

The recall was never intended to be used as a means of revenge and spite. To so use or permit it to be used forever to destroy its future usefulness and make it an uncertain and dangerous weapon for the hands of interested individuals and corporations whenever they shall determine to annoy and harass an unwilling individual who refuses to use its office in any other way than as his conscience dictates. That is what we elect Councilmen for, namely, to use their best discretion and to do their duty without fear that the patron against whom they may decide shall be assisted by the electors in obtaining revenge. No thinking man in the Sixth Ward can conscientiously say that Mr. Davenport has done anything which justifies a drum-head court-martial and a peremptory political and social execution. On the contrary, his work has been fully up to the standard which should be demanded of any Councilman; he has pulled and pushed for his ward, and there is nothing in his record which would justify his discharge for unfaithfulness, even if he were the employ of a private individual. It is not Mr. Davenport who is on trial, he is merely the victim of revenge; but it is the recall itself which is on trial. The Sixth Warders are to determine on the 16th whether the recall is a beneficial measure, or whether it is a trump card for revengeful contractors, corporations and individuals to play whenever a public officer does not tick their boots and he humbly serves to remove Mr. Davenport to make place for an unknown and untied man would be the worst self-interest and would go far toward convincing the voters of Los Angeles city, as a whole, that instead of being a beneficial check upon really dishonest and corrupt officials, the recall is itself rotten and dishonest, and should be done away with. It is an old saying that the best way to get rid of a law is to enforce it in such a manner that it is shown to be oppressive and unjust. Now the recall, when properly used, is beneficial, but when made the instrument of industrial and revenge it is worse than dynamite. "It is sure that Sixth Warders will not lend their support to any such move as this, but will feel it their duty to turn out and sustain Mr. Davenport. The result will then be that self-respecting citizens (and we do not want any others) will be willing to take office and perform public duties under the charter with the recall in it. It is certain that no self-respecting man can accept an office in Los Angeles without being subjected to public actions are to subject him to a vicious and revengeful use of the recall, and as a result the moral, intellectual and social standards of the city will be lowered and Los Angeles become the prey of uncertain and irresponsible political officials."

BELIEVES IN FAIR PLAY.

E. R. Allen, president of the Penn Oil Company, is a resident and elector of the Sixth Ward. Mr. Allen yesterday afternoon said that he favors the reelection of Councilman Davenport for the reason that he believes in fair play. "Davenport has been a good Councilman," said Mr. Allen. "He has worked faithfully for the ward, and for the city. He went into the Council as a Republican. He was elected by Republican votes, and he has done nothing to bring reproach either upon himself or on the party that elected him. To be of real benefit the recall must be regarded in the nature of a powerful weapon to be used only in cases of last resort. No slighted conscience has been forthcoming to show that Davenport has done anything more reprehensible than to refuse to be dictated to by certain would-be dictators. I regard this assault upon his honor and integrity to be an assault on the honor and integrity of the Republic. The Sixth Ward, who placed him in nomination and elected him to office, I feel that every Republican in the ward should make it a point to go to the polls on September 16 and cast a ballot expressing their confidence in their representative in the Council. I shall be pleased to ally myself with the Davenport Fair Play Club, and will do all in my power to give him the vindication at the hands of his constituents that he certainly deserves."

ATTACK BY FOREIGNERS.

"It makes a foreigner yearn to awaken the patriotic spirit in any people," said M. L. Phillips, another Sixth Warder. "This attack on Davenport is made by naturalized foreigners, the men in the lead are not residents of our ward and never have been, and they are playing on the presumed credulity of the workmen in the Sixth Ward to secure their selfish ends. There have been differences of opinion over street openings and the like, but we have been disappointed in the matter of transfers on East Ninth street, and outsiders with axes to grind are seeking to make capital out of our misfortune. Davenport has been a good Councilman. This attack from the outside has awakened his friends to action, and I think we shall Davenport on September 16 in true American style. "Bustling in politics doesn't go any more than anywhere else. I heard that man Norton rant about Davenport not voting for the low printing bid. I noticed he did not tell his hearers that Davenport did vote to give the printing to the Journal, which had made the low bid, but that the other Councilmen would not stand for it. "At one meeting Norton charged that the president of the Council had on one occasion stolen the Mayor's stamp, and affixed it to a demand for money on the treasury. At the same meeting another man got up and told those present that this was not true, that the stamp was affixed in the City Auditor's office, thus giving Norton the lie. Norton did not have the courage either to say that he had made a mistake or to try to explain how he came to make such a false statement. "Those fellows think they can come in here from other wards and dictate the policy of the Sixth Ward, but when the ballots are counted on the night of September 16 they are likely to have a rude awakening."

HILLER INDORSED.

THIRD WARD POLITICS.

About fifty members of the Twenty-eighth Precinct Republican Club met last night at First and Figueroa streets and passed resolutions endorsing Sidney Hiller for Councilman from the Third Ward. The resolutions recite that Mr. Hiller is a business man whose integrity has never been questioned and express confidence that if elected he will fill the position of Councilman with that honesty of purpose that has characterized his past. They are signed by W. A. Henry, president of the club, Secretary Goldberg, and a committee of five electors in the precinct.

BESIEGED BY CAMERA FIENDS.

AMERICA'S RICHEST WOMAN IN HER HOME.

Mrs. Walker, Heiress to the Weightman Millions, Will Carry on the Immense Business Left by Her Father—Has Four Fads, Laces, Business, Charity and Napoleon.

[Philadelphia Dispatch to New York Sun.] Mrs. R. J. C. Walker, heiress to a fortune estimated at from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, which was left to her by her father, William Weightman, was besieged today in her Walnut-street mansion.

Police guarded her doors and patrolled the street, driving on a crowd of photographers who sought to snap her for the benefit of a curious world.

Mrs. Walker refused to be snapped. All day she sat and wrote at her desk in the second-story front of the Walnut-street house, which has been turned into a magnificent suite of offices and from which the business her father built up will be carried on.

It is a large apartment, with a bay window which looks out into the famous Lippincott mansion grounds. It is not elaborately furnished, but everywhere are indications of one of the few hobbies Mrs. Walker possesses. Lace curtains hang from the windows, lace falls from draperies over doors, and in little crevices and corners bits of filmy white relieve the severity of the rooms.

For the richest business woman in the world has four hobbies: business, lace, charity and Napoleon. These may not be arranged in order of their strength, but certainly business comes first with Chemist Weightman's daughter. She had been trained under her father and husband. Now a widow of 58 she has well in hand all the details of the business from which grew the millions she inherited. But Mrs. Walker likes to move quietly. Hence the police and the disappointed photographers. She wanted to go out, for a big red automobile in which she travels to her laboratories fitted about the house all day, but was blocked by the cameras. Indignant relatives and servants scowled and scolded and threatened the men of plate and film, but the camera defenses were impregnable. Four of the tripod artists were arrested, but others heroically took their place.

When night fell a few artists lingered about, but the lady of millions did not show herself. She died at 6 o'clock, read until 8 and at 10 went to bed. All the photographers had been released by that time and the red automobile had ceased its panting and was at rest.

MODEST AND RETIRING.

Never did a more modest and retiring little woman become the ruler of such extended enterprises and never did inheritance fall into the hands of one more nearly a replica of the person who made the inheritance possible. William Weightman's characteristics, aside from personal modesty, were habits as methodical as a clock, and strict attention to the smallest details of his business.

His hair is red, tinged with gray; she wears it in waves over her temples and caught up in a coil back of the ears. Her nose is snub, and her complexion shows numerous freckles. There are traces of wrinkles about the mouth, and the chin is square and masculine; the eyes are sunken.

There are traces of wrinkles about the mouth, and the chin is square and masculine; the eyes are sunken. Mrs. Walker's face is of the kind that shows the lights and shadows of the mind. She rarely shows anger, but she has a keen sense of humor, and her smile makes her look twenty years younger. For the rest she is slight of physique and nervous in manner. Her eyes are steel blue.

Everywhere about her face is used as hangings and decorations. Priceless lace from many lands fills curiously carved cabinets. Rich old laces cover tables and hang over mirrors. Dressed always in black, Mrs. Walker wears the uniform of her attire by the same fabric. Lace hangs at her wrists and falls about her shoulders. Curiously contrasted with this love for the delicate is her admiration for strong men and women. Napoleon is her hero. Most of the paintings and etchings on her walls reflect scenes from the life of the great Emperor.

NAPOLEONIC RELICS.

Her collection of Napoleonic literature and relics is one of the most complete in the United States. She seldom reads fiction. Mrs. Walker is a cultured and accomplished woman. She has gained her knowledge by study and personal contact with the world. Both for pleasure and through contact with the world-wide business interests of her father, she has visited practically every important spot on the globe, with the exception of Australia. In this way she has learned things at first hand. It is now a fund of knowledge of vast importance to her. She knows the details of the Weightman business in Peru, London and Venezuela almost as intimately as she does the secrets of the great Philadelphia laboratories. Mrs. Walker's preparation for the immense burden has been gradual.

When the two sons, John Fair Weightman and William Weightman Jr. reached maturity, William Weightman diverted the profits of his business to the children. Each drew a salary almost as high as his own. The brothers died, and now Mrs. Walker owns all. There the Walkers occupied a mansion at West Fourth street and Fifth avenue, which is now the home of J. Henry Cochran, millionaire banker, lumberman and State Senator. The Walkers were even then immensely wealthy. Mrs. Walker never cared for society, and had a small circle of friends to whom she was devotedly attached. She entertained lavishly. It gave her the keenest pleasure to make up parties of her friends and take them to Englewood and other near-by resorts. Sometimes she would entertain these parties for weeks at a time.

To the poor she gave bountifully, and in most cases the recipients did not know their benefactress's identity. Her charities were, and are, largely carried on through the Episcopal Church and its societies.

cause Michael Fisher, Barber,

Wisely but Too Well.

A murder that turned out to be murder by whisky instead of by bullet, was reported from the vineyard of L.

J. Niemeyer, near Glendale, yesterday.

and furnished sensational headlines for the afternoon papers. A man had been found lying dead in the brush, with a bullet hole just over his heart,

etc., etc.

The man was Michael Fisher, a barber well known around the craft in Los Angeles where he had worked for many years. He died in the doorway of his home.

It was reported that the man had been drinking heavily and that he had been shot by a bullet which had entered his body through the back and had passed through his heart.

Fisher lived at No. 316 Boyd street with his family, consisting of wife and three boys, the eldest being Thoma-

as, aged 17, works for the Cresent

Company. Fisher recently owned and conducted a barber shop at No. 1219 Central avenuet, but he sold this business about ten days ago. No one seems to know what he did with the money, but it is understood he did not use it for his family. Fisher had been a drinking man for years, one of those who "could take it or leave it alone."

He indulged his appetite apparently without restraint during the last few days of his life. Last Friday morning he awoke as usual, but he was troubled at home. "Don't you take me out there till I can brace up? I have no money."

Niemeyer consented, and Fisher went with him that afternoon to the vineyard. "He was in a bad shape," said Niemeyer, "but not drunk. He was, except a little dazed with his meals. He wanted to come back to town. I put him in my wagon, but couldn't keep him on the seat. So left him at home. I go to Los Angeles to market every times a week. I went in this (Monday) morning, starting two hours after midnight. There didn't seem to be anything more than usual the matter with Fisher then. Before noon I got a telephone message from my hired man, Conner, saying he had found

Fisher lying dead in the yard in front of the house at 7 o'clock in the morning. He was lying down, with his clasp of brush. That's all I have been able to find out."

The coroner was notified. He, and later the sheriff, who had been apprised of the "bullet hole over the heart" and the "evidence of a struggle" drove to the vineyard and found the body. Later the body was brought to the city by Bresce Bros.,

and by them turned over to Pierce &

Co. by direction of the family.

Under the circumstances an autopsy was decided upon and the body per-

POSTMEN CONVENE.

Half Hundred Delegates Here at Session of State Association of Letter Carriers.

The State Association of Letter Carriers is holding its convention here.

The meetings opened yesterday morning in Turner Hall, and half a hundred men participated in the day's work, mostly routine business. The session was presided over by the president, J.

M. Roche, assisted by the vice-president, H. H. Flint. After a short talk by

S. Richards, head of the Los Angeles branch, No. 24, Johnstone Jones, Esq.,

the official representative of Mayor

Snyder, gave a short and pointed address of welcome. The local postmaster, Motley H. Flint, was introduced to the company as the friend of the American carrier, and was received with applause. In a heart-to-heart talk, which was full of advice, Flint advised the delegates to keep out of politics, and to convince the government of their earnestness and desire to render more conscientious, efficient service.

The appointment of committees and routine business took the rest of the day.

In the evening the members enjoyed a banquet at Levy's, with speechmaking as a feature.

Today, if affairs permit, they will take a trip to Mt. Lowe.

Haggerty Arrives.

Walter Hemper, coach of Pomona

College, and the young man who is the local high school ball boss, have been in town a week, like Brer Fox, "layin' low and sayin' nuffin." The Seymour scheme to get out of the gridiron-business this season passed under his eye, and in consequence several new developments have arisen in the situation. Los Angeles High School, Harvard, Pomona

High and Riverside High are likely to play whatever local games they have

at Fiesta Park under Hemper's management as a result of some quiet ling done last week by the Pomona viewers of athletics; the local high has already agreed to go nowhere else inside the city. Its managers did not take the Seymour offer seriously;

they decided to take it at all.

Hemper has offered the teams that play with him a good part fitted up for football at a rental of 25 per cent of the gross receipts, and already has games scheduled for most of the best dates. Los Angeles High is reckoned the strongest team in its class at the present writing; with the exception of Henry and Rheinschild the team is identical with that of last year, and it is believed some of the new men will replace the good pair that is lost.

W. C. is said to be the field Hemper does not think Seymour will go ahead with his high school proposition, and there seems to be some ground for his views, as the manager of Prager Park has been trying to rent that field to the

BEER SOAKS THE PICNIC.

Shocking Debauchery at Labor Day Celebration.

Inspiration in Barrels for a Disgusting Scene.

Boss of Union Crowd Afraid of Truth.

"Boss" Fennessy, in a purple ribbon, ordered all Times men out of Schuetzen Park yesterday when the labor-union picnic began to get bleary in the eyes.

He dreaded to have the truth told about the debaucheries that he knew from experience wind up Labor Day picnics.

Wherefor The Times is unable to give an account of the edifying sottish revels of the mauldin wind-up.

They didn't want any more truth to get out. Early in the afternoon a photographer, out for himself, tried to take a picture of the bar where beer was flowing in river. The word was instantly passed that he belonged to The Times. He was near to being mobbed.

A group of burly ruffians surrounded him and made ugly threats. He told them he was not from The Times, and one of them said: "Well, if you have any way of showing that you are a union man, you had better dig it out pretty quick."

When the real Times photographer came, he, too, was surrounded. Four or five big union men, who smelled violently of beer, told him he had better get out. He didn't go.

As the photographer took a seat quietly in the shade, two or three of the committeemen perched up on guard on one of three big trucks loaded high with beer kegs. Happy guards!

The first time he moved out into the open, he was again surrounded by menacing union men, who threatened to mob him.

Someone sent for Fennessy. Fennessy was so worried that he danced around like a hen on a hot Johnny cake; but Fennessy was polite; excruciatingly polite.

"Excuse me," he said; "but we had a little rather you didn't stay here." The Times men instantly complied with the request, with equal politeness. The elaborate courtesy that flew around there made an ambassador's ball a rude gathering.

In the end Fennessy had a regular

A thousand frightened people on a wharf breaking so as to cut them off from shore and a babe swept from its mother's arms at Ocean Park, a big passenger steamer unable to make a landing at Port Los Angeles, a crack yacht ashore, where she will probably go to pieces, and sections of wharf carried away at Brighton Beach, damage to property and limb at Long

GREATEST OF HELIOSTATS.

Astronomical Wonder Going On Mount Wilson.

Beginner of the Work Long Ago Speaks Here.

Prof. Pickering Says Moon Time is Short.

Los Angeles has the distinction of at present having as guests a number of noted astronomers, and it was announced last night for the first time what is the purpose of their visit.

The determination to establish on Mount Wilson the greatest heliostat in the world is attracting the widest attention from the astronomers of the entire range of celestial investigation. One indication of this was the congregation of them who quietly gathered on the summit of Mount Wilson last week, accompanied by Prof. R. H. Eastwold of this city. They were: Prof. W. H. Pickering of Harvard Observatory; Prof. George E. Hale, director of Yerkes Observatory; Dr. H. H. Turner, president of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, who was accompanied by his wife; Prof. Ritchie, Adams and Killerman of Yerkes Observatory.

They inspected the work now being done on the mountain, which was actually begun fifteen years ago by Prof. Pickering, who addressed the Academy of Science last night at the Chamber of Commerce.

"The work being done up there is a great surprise," said Prof. Baumgardt in opening the meeting. "I might almost as well undertake to convince you that they are taking the Pyramids of Egypt to the summit of Mt. Wilson. They are building enormous foundations of cement and granite for the purpose of installing there the largest heliostat in the world. It will have a focal length of 140 feet and will be completed in October."

Prof. Baumgardt explained to those present who were not astronomers that a heliostat is an instrument to permanently reflect the sun without being in any way affected by the diurnal motion.

The beginning of this work on Mount Wilson and the great instrument have heretofore been illustrated in The Times. Several times since Prof. Pickering visited Wilson Peak with a photographer and several assistants fifteen years ago, other parties of astronomers have done the same thing, and Prof. Pickering has himself been back once since, making the present one his third visit. They have been of one mind—that Mount Wilson is the best place on the continent for the purpose of installing the big instrument.

PICKERING'S MOON TALK.
For seven weeks Prof. Pickering has vibrated between Mt. Lowe and Mt. Wilson, being greatly interested in the latter work, and having crossed the continent to observe the moon under the favorable conditions offered by the great Mt. Lowe telescope. He said last night:

"These observations of the moon are a difficult task I never attempt them in the East at Cambridge, where the atmosphere is so poor as to make it useless to try."

He talked learnedly and interestingly of the moon, with special reference to the craters and canals on the surface of the orb, for it is rather a desperate job for a layman to open his mouth on the subject without putting his foot in it. He said, among other things:

"Until within comparatively a few years it has been the impression that the moon is a cold, changeless body—a burned-out cinder, as it were. This theory was mostly advanced by men who didn't study the moon. Since I seriously took the matter up I have found the changes surprisingly large."

The speaker referred to the well-known craters of the moon by name, gave their dimensions, and showed by his reasoning that these craters vary greatly in size, according to the length of time they are exposed to the rays of the sun, and some disappearing entirely. He said they are largest when first touched by the sun, growing gradually smaller under the sun's rays and increasing rapidly in size during the lunar night. This indicated that they were formed of ice and snow. He said:

"We don't know that it is snow, but it looks like snow, acts like snow, and therefore we conclude that it is snow. Dark spots appear in the craters when they naturally should disappear and the conclusion is that these spots are vegetation."

Referring to Mars, he said: "When speaking of the lakes, canals and seas of Mars, you must understand that we do not at all refer to water, but they are due to vegetation. If there is any uncertainty about the lakes, canals and seas of Mars, there is no uncertainty about those on the moon, for there is no water on the moon, and it is evident that the changes are due to vegetation."

"This theory of vegetation was first advanced some years ago and it is now generally accepted. It is vegetation along waterways, but how the waterways got there is another question."

"Prof. Lowell advanced the theory that the canals on Mars were built by intelligent beings and he now says that he thinks the water is pumped through the canals by intelligent beings. And we have no means of knowing. I rather doubt if there are any ditches to dig and doubt if there are any intelligent beings to dig them."

He illustrated his theory of vegetation growing along "cracks" in the moon rather than along canals, by referring to the peculiar markings on the side of a volcano in Hawaii, where the cracks are fringed with vegetation, giving an appearance exactly similar to that in the moon. He stated that the vegetation on the moon seemed to grow and die in a lunar day, which corresponds with the terrestrial year; that the vapor that gives the moisture to encourage vegetation is the result of condensation and re-condensation of vapor from the hoar frost, which is returned to the moon again and again. As a parting shot, he said: "If you want to do anything on the moon you've got to get up and hustle, as the time is short."

The United States European squadron, commanded by Rear-Admiral Jewell and consisting of the Olympia (flagship), Cleveland and Des Moines, will arrive at Cherbourg, France, Thursday, from Gibraltar and remain five days. From there the squadron will sail for Gravesend, Eng., and Norway.

Before The Times was excused from further attendance, however, there had happened about enough to surfeit the disgust of an ordinary man.

The last sight to be seen on the ground as The Times photographer and reporter were escorted out were a young girl and a burly tough, both drunk.

They were standing near the open air "blind pig" bar, over which hundreds of kegs of beer passed yesterday. They had just drained the last drop from the last of many schooners.

The girl stood looking dully into the bottom of her glass with her feet spread out far for support. All that was human had gone from her face. Drink had made her a besotted, pitiable beast.

The man with her, his eyes bleared over, flung his glass on the ground. She gave a little giggle and flung hers also on the ground. It rolled almost to Fennessy's feet as he was passing sentence on The Times men.

The District Attorney tried to have the labor picnic declared a nuisance, but such a howl went up that he extended the time for stopping the sale of liquor at Schuetzen Park until after Labor Day.

At one time there were three enormous truck loads of beer at the park yesterday. The quantities consumed were absolutely appalling.

"BOSS" WORRIED.
When The Times men were ordered out, dozens of drunken men were to be seen. There had been an uproarious free fight. Some of the dancers in the pavilion were beginning to dance in a way that takes dancing out of the line of innocent amusements.

Last year The Times told the pitiless truth regarding the drunken rioting of the labor picnic. Yesterday they were on the lookout against The Times.

spasm of politeness, in which he shook hands all around and thanked The Times men for coming.

Not to be outdone, the offer was made to add to and embellish his overflowing happiness by staying; but Fennessy declined to be made as glad as that.

He was asked for an explanation for putting out men who were behaving themselves.

He said: "Well, you see, some of the boys may get a little lively. We know that The Times might take pictures of the scene. We don't want anything like that in the papers."

"Yes, yes," he said; "but it would give a wrong impression."

A Times man said to Fennessy: "We will tell exactly what has happened and nothing more."

Fennessy misunderstood this to be a threat against himself. "Yes, all right," he said, resignedly, "I suppose you will go back and call Fennessy a blackie or something."

And Fennessy started slowly back from the gate, absently rattling the money in his cashier's valise—the money won from making young girls drunk.

A "BLIND PIG."
The fact is all the winnings of the unions yesterday were against the law. This Schuetzen Park bar yesterday was a "blind pig"—frankly speaking.

There is no license to sell beer there. They plausibly denied that they sold beer. What they did was to sell you a pasteboard ticket for 5 cents. To any holder of pasteboard tickets a glass of beer was given "free."

Nickel-in-the-slot robbing machines were everywhere. There must have been a dozen of them, besieged all day long. Several had to be played with quarters.

At one of these latter machines a young boy stood and plucked money into the slots as fast as he could make out the lookout against The Times.

Beach, and several people injured at various points along shore, these were some of the results of the marine disturbance of yesterday.

A tremendous lunar pull, a mighty earth resistance and a storm away somewhere in the offing producing a powerful surf along the coast line caused the sea to encroach on the land and do damage at several points along the neighboring shores.

PIERCE AT OCEAN PARK.
At Ocean Park old ocean worked overtime in a highly successful endeavor to afford the thousands of Labor Day visitors a marine spectacle such as is seldom witnessed on the shores of the sundown sea. Breakers were running extraordinarily high all day, but it was not until the middle of the afternoon that the real fun commenced with the incoming tide.

Long lines of whitecaps six deep and as high as a house piled themselves successively upon the beach and came as far on the broad walk as do the high tides of winter's storms. Unsuspecting lighters occupying supposedly safe positions on the dry sand were suddenly drenched by onrushing waves. Other people soon took their places, and it would not be long before another bunch of half-drowned people was scurrying for shelter.

On the esplanade the billows dashed hip high on the spectators, and frequently the spray splashed over the recreation pier. This structure was crowded with people the whole day long.

About 5 o'clock, while the wharf had a thousand people on it, suddenly one breaker larger than any that had gone before it ran rushing and charging amidst the pier's underpinning.

Instantly there was a creak as of

and the deck or floor of the structure had dropped several feet.

The pier was slowly relieved of its crowd without injury to any, and but little further damage to the structure.

At the foot of Hill street, near the bath-house, the waves made a sensational dash and overran the board walk. No wave had attained such a height before and nobody was expecting such an onrush. Men, women and children were sitting on the sand enjoying the sight of the foaming combers. A huge wave quartered madly toward them from a southerly direction. Another bounded simultaneously from out of the north.

DOZENS SOAKED.
They met at the foot of Hill street and, riding right on the crest of the two from the west, came a breaker by the sea in close proximity to some of the heavy timbers that were washing in from the wrecked pier. Somebody rescued the whirling bundle of humanity just as the receding wave was rolling it down the steep beach toward deep water.

WOMAN HURT.
Yesterday while Mrs. A. Nelson of Los Angeles was watching the bathers in front of the Hill-street bath-house, she sustained a painful accident. The lady, who is about 50 years old, was sitting near the crossbrace that supports the pier's underpinning.

Instantly there was a creak as of

GOT DECISION OVER HERRERA.

"Batting" Nelson Wins at Butte, Mont.

Mexican Tried Frantically to Land a Knockout.

Missouri Bull Fights Doomed.
Gardiner Knocked Out.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.)

Butte (Mont.) Sept. 5.—After twenty rounds of the fiercest milling ever witnessed in this city, "Batting" Nelson of Chicago, before 10,000 persons, won this afternoon given the decision over the tap of the bell for the opening round, the two lightweights waited in the ring with hammer and tongs, and without cessation throughout the twenty rounds.

Herrera scored the only knockdown of the fight, sending the Chicago lad to the floor with a hard right to the jaw, and Nelson took the count to nine. Under the rules, Herrera was obliged to return to his corner, and before he got at Nelson again, the latter had recovered partially from his dazed condition, and was able to block the blows the Mexican was swinging wildly at him. Herrera, in his efforts to land a knockout, slipped his guard, and Nelson, with a heavy swing, caught the Mexican on the jaw, staggering him. A rush was sent the Mexican up against the ropes, and Nelson, also groggy himself, appeared to have the dark-skinned man in a stranglehold. The fight was a hard one, and both men were exhausted. The referee, however, was not in a position to call the fight off, and the two men continued to fight until the end of the twenty rounds.

World's Fair Swims.

World's Records Broken.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.)

St. Louis, Sept. 5.—Two swimming events which marked the continuation of the world's fair olympics were held here today in the pool of the United States Navy Corps, which was surrounded by immense crowds. The tournament, which was open to the swimmers of the world, had entries from Hungary and Germany, as well as the various parts of this country.

In the first event, the one-mile championship, E. Raucha of Germany beat the record of 23:05.3, held by John Dwyer of the New York Athletic Club. His time, 22:18.1. He won the race by 75 yards.

World championship: Won by John Dwyer, Budapest, Hungary; time, 14:18.1. Second, Max Page of Germany, time, 14:20.1. Third, H. C. Scott, Lehigh, N.Y.A.C., New York; time, 14:21.1. Fourth, distance, 100 yards, time, 1:10.1. Fifth, distance, 50 yards, time, 1:05.1.

World polo championship: Won by the team of the Missouri A.C., who won New York by a score of 4 to 3.

Girls' Black Ribbed School Stockings, medium light weight, seamless, with double heels and toes, sizes 6 to 94, regular 15c quality, 3 pairs for 25c, or 13 pairs 81. New goods too—not broken lines. No less than 3 pairs to a customer—and the price holds good on Tuesday only.
Same for boys—sizes 7 to 10—only medium heavy weight, regular 20c value,
2 pairs for 25c or 9 pairs 81. On sale
Tuesday only. Children's 35c and 50c

Women's Garments Cut and Fitted Free for a Few Days, Beginning Tuesday.
Any garment—evening waists, shirt waists and
-shirt waist suits; Eton jackets and long coats; tea gowns, dressing saques, kimonoas and wrappers;
by the expert New York designers,
Miller & Miller
After considerable correspondence we induced Professor and Mrs. Miller—who usually have engagements six months ahead—to come to California. They're here now and their services are at the command of our customers—without charge.
Miller & Miller are not only authorities on "correct attire," but are originators of styles; studying the individuality of each customer and adapting the garment to her requirements.

The Proposition
The only condition necessary to benefit by above remarkable offer is that you buy materials of us—from 25c a yard upward—and necessary trimmings, findings, etc.
Understand distinctly, this does not include making—but the cutting and fitting will be done with such accuracy that you or your dressmaker will have no difficulty in completing the garment, and that with very little labor.
Everything in readiness Tuesday morning.
Fittings arranged for in rotation orders are taken,
which means
"First Come First Served!"

Underpriced Bed Spreads
Underpriced not because of any shortcomings in the
spreads themselves, but solely because we bought
under the ruling rates
and are willing to narrow our regular profits to force sales. Two price hints to show the

BRAVE DEFENSE OF PORT ARTHUR.

COMPARED WITH NOTABLE SIEGES OF HISTORY.

Kars Held Out for Six Months and Then Yielded to Starvation Rather Than the Enemy—Famous Siege of Saragossa—The Investment of Paris by the Germans.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch.] The obstinate defense by the Russians of Port Arthur has driven many to their books to discover comparisons with other sieges as determined and actual, which have differed from the one of which Longfellow sings: "An army of phantoms, pale and wan, beleaguering the walls of Plevna." Seven novel papers have already supplied interesting detail of this or that siege, but a composite will now be attempted with the aid of the historical references.

It was on May 13 that all land communication was shut off from Port Arthur to the northward. On June 1 the besieging army was so close that the attack upon the outworks began. Thus 108 days have elapsed. There have been shorter and longer periods occupied in sieges.

Only twenty days sufficed to bring Cornwallis to surrender at Yorktown, and thus ended the serious fighting of the American Revolution. Vicksburg stood the most notable siege of the Civil War, and it fell in seventy-nine days after the investment was complete. It took only seventy days to starve Bazaine's big army into surrender when it was shut within the strong fortifications of the city.

The name of Saragossa is typical of all that is desperate and terrible in sieges, for there the French and the Spaniards fought a desperate battle for the city. The name of Saragossa is typical of all that is desperate and terrible in sieges, for there the French and the Spaniards fought a desperate battle for the city.

The defense of Plevna, in the last Russo-Turkish war, made Osman Pasha one of the heroes of military history, but it lasted only forty-four days or about as long as Port Arthur has held out against a greater army than the Russians used in taking the Turkish town in 1877.

The Turkish forces shut up in Ladymith held out 113 days before the Boers gave up the siege, and Kimberley was beleaguered 122 days in the same war, likewise escaping capture. Making held out longer still.

Another Dutch town, Haarlem, was besieged by the Spaniards in December, 1572; it surrendered in July of the following year. Antwerp has been through the same experience. It was unsuccessfully besieged in 1582. During most of 1584 and 1585 it was invested by that great soldier, the Duke of Parma, and captured in August of the latter year.

The story of the attack on Londonderry is brilliantly told by Lord Macaulay. The Irish Protestants defended it against James II., endeavoring to recover his kingdom, from April 19, 1690, to August of the same year, when it was relieved.

and ended July 12, 1591. It is estimated that 300,000 lives were lost on both sides together in that terrible struggle between the English and the Irish. When the English took Calais in 1347 it was at the cost of a year's siege, but the memorable defense of Rhodes against the Turks in which the Knights of St. John won great renown, lasted only four months.

THIS DUNHAM SEEMS SHIFTY.

OFFICERS THINK HE CARRIES A FALSE BRAND.

Revival of Old Frontier Times Down Near the Border—Lurid, Spiffy Gun Play With Several Wounded, One Slain and Another Likely to Die.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.] TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 4.—There now appears a decided doubt of the story told by Douglas, who, captured near Bisbee a few days ago, claims to be Dunham, the California multi-murderer. Douglas has talked too much, and his captors are beginning to believe that the fellow is either cravering cowardly or else wishes to be taken to California, possibly to escape the penalty for some crime committed in another part of the country.

Plainly, the man is a common criminal, of many years of outlawry. He modestly admits that he is wanted for three murders, besides those of the Dunham slaying near San Jose. He says he has served three years in the Arizona penitentiary at Yuma, and that he escaped from the New Mexico penitentiary after serving only six months of a six years' sentence. He is charged with having robbed a saloon in Tucson a few months ago, and with having done a side line of abduction up in Navajo country.

Lieut. Brooks of the Arizona Rangers believes the man has been mixed in a train robbery. "Douglas" has given out at different times that his true name is Dunham, Henderson, and George E. Nelson. He appears to be about 35 years old, weighs about 150 pounds and has red hair and a beard. He has been working as a common laborer for six weeks at the silica quarry of the Copper Queen Company, below Bisbee, receiving $12.50 a day.

The foreman of the quarry called him a good workman, but "queer." He seemed apprehensive and nervous, and made several efforts to borrow a revolver. When hunted by Rangers Brooks and Sanford, he made a desperate struggle for his liberty, opposing a pick handle to the rangers' firearms. He continued to resist even after being shot through the body and dropped only when "creased" by a pistol bullet that plowed a furrow across his skull.

He is being guarded closely at Navajo because of two attempts he has made to secure weapons and escape. Brooks does not believe him to be Dunham, but is confident that he is a criminal worth holding. Information concerning him has been telegraphed to California, Texas and New Mexico.

OLD-TIME GUN-PLAY SLAYING.
A week ago, Silver City, in Southwestern New Mexico, was the scene of a typically southwestern affray, of a kind not happily infrequent. Pat Nunn, a cattle ranch foreman, was in town with two of his cowboys, Mart Kennedy and Howard Chenoweth. The cowboys became drunk and abusive. Nunn put his revolver aside and whipped Kennedy, who had called him "fighting name." Kennedy picked up the foreman's revolver and shot him three times at his owner.

One of the whooping Nunn's chest and another glanced across his forehead, making a bad wound. Deputy Sheriff Murray rushed to the place, and wrestled with the cowboys for the possession of the pistol. Perfecto Rodriguez ran to assist the officer, and was shot by Chenoweth through the heart. The next man to Murray's assistance was the Town Marshal, W. H. Kilburn.

As he approached, Chenoweth jerked down his arm out of Murray's grasp and shot the bullet passing through the Marshal's neck and inflicting a wound that will probably prove fatal. About that time the cowboys managed to escape from the fracas, leaving a little shot of miraculous. Later the pair were captured, however, and jailed.

Chenoweth is a member of a family that has lived for twenty years in Southeastern Arizona. His father is a Baptist preacher.

consternation in his courtroom the other day by ordering the constable to search the crowd assembled and to bring before the bar any man found guilty of carrying a firearm. A close search developed not a single "gun." Naturally the officer began his search in the front of the room. While he was engaged with the lawyers, five large revolvers were passed back through the crowd and out the front door.

TERRITORIAL BRIEFS.
J. S. Knowles, a former employe of the El Paso and Southern Railway in Arizona, died last week in El Paso of heart disease. He had drawn $100 from an El Paso bank, by representing himself as J. H. Knowles, a mining man of Paradise Camp, Ariz. Knowles became wildly excited when arrested, and died soon after. He had borne a good reputation theretofore, and it is believed that the crime was his first.

A San Francisco traveling man claims to have recognized "Swifty," a Bishop local character, the operator who caused the train wreck near Vall's station a couple of years ago. "Swifty" is understood to be slightly demented. Arizona's ranger force is busily searching the cattle ranges along the border looking for "burned brands" or other evidence of irregularities or theft. A large number of cattle have been restored to their owners by the rangers in the last few months.

P. D. Harrington, a member of a miners' union at Altman, Colo., died at Douglas Thursday through morphine self-administration. It appears to have been a case of too much "good fellow." Harrington had spent his money freely around the mines, and then was refused assistance when destitute. A pathetic little note left beside the morphine bottle read: "I always worked hard for my money and spent it free. I am driven to this by people I have spent my money with."

Andrew Larsen, a member of a railroad grading crew, was run down by a train Tuesday at Benson and killed. Liquor was the cause. Larsen was a member of the order of Woodmen of the World.

Sam Long, a Southern Pacific brakeman, tried to woo slumber on the top of a box car at Yuma. He fell asleep and then fell off the car. He was so badly injured that he had to be sent to the company hospital at Los Angeles.

The famous old Yuba blanket story has had a renaissance. George Trigg, a Yuma cowboy, took too much rum aboard and then betook himself to his couch. Unmindful of the fact that he was in Yuma, in the summer time, he pulled a blanket over him. An hour later he was taken to the hospital, unconscious. After he had been packed in ice and given the most vigorous of treatment, he was pulled back over the divide. Dr. Ketcherside says that all that ailed the man was the blanket.
